WORSHIP SERVICES

January 2022 Worship

Sunday morning worship--10:00 am, Prelude; 10:30 am, Service

UUCSS is proud to offer hybrid worship on Sunday mornings. Some of us gather together in person in the Sanctuary and others tune in online. Masks are required at all times on church property, except when eating and drinking. All services are offered both in-person in the Sanctuary and online unless otherwise noted. Online links sent out in weekly all-church email and on Sunday mornings.

January 2: A Cup of Kindness, Rev. Kristin Grassel Schmidt

Start the New Year off right with UUCSS! Our theme this month is "Living with Intention" so this week we begin with a service of letting go of our burdens and realigning ourselves with love and purpose.

January 9: Loving Ourselves, Rev. Kristin Grassel Schmidt

Join us for the first in a series of three services rooted in the wisdom of mystic Howard Thurman. Thurman was a student of Gandhi, advisor to Martin Luther King, Jr., and spiritual activist in his own right. This week we explore Thurman's teachings about love of self.

January 16: Loving Others, Rev. Kristin Grassel Schmidt

Join us this Martin Luther King Jr. weekend for the second in a series of three services rooted in the wisdom of King's spiritual advisor, Howard Thurman. In this service we will explore Thurman's theology of loving others, and how that shaped the spiritual activism that gave strength to the Civil Rights movement.

January 23: Loving All, Rev. Kristin Grassel Schmidt

This Sunday is the third in a series of three services rooted in the wisdom of Howard Thurman. This week we reflect on love of God and love of all.

January 30: Love Is Not Enough, Rev. Kimberley Debus

Our Unitarian Universalist faith calls us to love, but what does that look like? Is it enough to have love, or must we do more to hold our congregations and communities in covenant?

Rev. Kimberley Debus is a community minister based in Takoma Park, inspiring an artful and art-filled faith. She consults with congregations and religious professionals throughout the denomination. She is a member of the other UUCSS, in Saratoga Springs, NY, and is joyfully affiliated with the Unitarian Church of Lincoln, Nebraska. Rev. Kimberley has previously served at the Church of the Larger Fellowship as well as congregations on Long Island and Key West.

Minister's Column by Rev. Kristin Grassel Schmidt

Fifty-nine years ago, the man whose birthday the nation will celebrate midway through this month wrote the following from a Birmingham jail cell: “The church was not merely a thermometer that recorded the ideas and principles of popular opinion; it was a thermostat that transformed the mores of society.” While many remember Martin Luther King, Jr., as a brave civil rights leader, it can be easy to overlook that his work for social justice was rooted in his vocation as a minister. His vision encompassed not only change in national rights and politics, but also the way faith communities might lead that change.

This month’s worship theme is “Living with Intention,” and I can think of no better focus for the beginning of a new year. Among other things, this month’s service line-up includes a three-week sermon series rooted in the wisdom of spiritual activist Howard Thurman (who mentored Dr. King). January worship concludes with a service led by my friend and colleague, Kimberley Debus, a community minister who lives in Takoma Park.

Your Board will also be working to practice what we preach about dismantling anti-racism by beginning a year-long study of Widening the Circle, a report by the UUA’s Commission on Institutional Change. I’m glad that Dr. Laura Solomon, Director of Spiritual Growth, will join me in co-facilitating this study. I’m so proud to serve a congregation that not only worked to adopt the proposed 8th Principle, but is living our values with intention by using this report to help reflect on the ways we can begin to dismantle the white supremacy baked into our own congregation’s leadership and governance practices.

And I hope you’ll join me in bidding high and often at UUCSS’s “Out of This World” Auction! It’s my intention for this to be a year not only of fundraising, but FUN-raising, and what better way to kick that off than this cherished annual tradition. It looks like there are some great items on offer, including a traditional Texas Barbecue Brisket Dinner prepared from scratch by none other than my husband and me. I can’t wait to see who wins it!

May we all find ways to live with deeper intention into 2022, and in so doing may we all help bring about more health, sustainability, and joy to the people and world around us.

In faith and affection,

Rev. Kristin

Message From Maggie Hayes, Board President

Message from Board President Maggie Hayes

Holiday greetings! Whether you've been celebrating Hanukkah, the Winter Solstice, Christmas, Kwanzaa, or the New Year, I hope your holidays were safe, meaningful, and joyous.

Our worship theme for January is "Living with Intention." Now, I have only the vaguest idea of what that phrase means. I suppose I live with intention, since every morning I arise with the intention of checking a respectable number of items off my "to do" list; going for my daily walk; eating reasonably healthy meals; spending at least an hour reading the next book for one of my three book clubs; and finding a little time to relax.

But I'm guessing that's not what "living with intention" means. A compulsive researcher, I of course turned to Google. I can report that there are more than 200 books on the subject; almost 400 youtube videos; endless blogs and podcasts; and a mental health clinic in Indiana bearing that name.

This superficial exploration made me realize how much I appreciate UUCSS worship services for their intellectual and inspirational content, for the effort that goes into educating us about important issues and concepts in ways we can all understand. Recent examples come to mind: Rev. Kristin's audacious sermon on November 7, To Fix or Fight the System, in which she contemplated the Unitarian-financed raid on Harper's Ferry and its role in the eventual emancipation of slaves. Dr. Laura's message on December 5, Kindling the Light, an inspired reframing of the Hanukkah miracle. Our Racial Justice Task Force's service on December 12, People Who Need People, ideas about how our community might begin our spiritual journey of living into our 8th Principle resolution. Mary Beth Lerner invoked a recent book, Finding the Mother Tree by Suzanne Simard, to draw analogies between the interdependent circle of the life of trees and approaches we might take in building a Beloved Community. Jake Ryder introduced us (me at least) to the concept of "punkhope," a practice of cultivating hope, not despite the grim facts of impending climate disaster and the rise of right-wing extremism, but because of them.

I'm confident I'll be educated and inspired on Sunday mornings in January about living with intention. My gratitude to Rev. Kristin, Dr. Laura, the Worship Committee, and other UUCSS groups for the consistently high-quality content of our worship services.

Happy New Year!

The current (November 18, 2021) guidelines state that "Hosts of off-campus events (meetings, Auction events) should make decisions about precautions considering this guidance, local regulations, and the comfort level of each attendee. These decisions should not be dependent on the vaccination status of individuals. When the transmission risk is Very High or Severe (as indicated on the Covid Act Now website), off-campus events should be suspended."

If you have any questions about the auction, please email the Auction Team at auction@uucss.org.

Volunteer Spotlight

Deborah Sorenson

Deborah Sorensen grew up in Texas and was highly involved in her local Methodist Church. It had a personable pastor with a fine sense of humor and a good youth group. That changed when the family moved to a rural location that did not have the same sense of home. After moving out of the family home, she became more interested in Buddhism as a personal approach to life and relationships but not as part of a temple.

After coming to DC with her husband, she remembers meeting someone at work with a chalice necklace and developed a positive feeling for the denomination after learning more online. As her daughter grew older she started looking for church. She missed the weekly connection with people and wanted Fiona (or Finn), then 13, to have space for her own needs and interests. They visited Paint Branch UUC but found that there were very few people Fiona's age. She and Fiona tried UUCSS and, with Rev. Lynn in the pulpit, it immediately felt like the friendly open church of her youth. (Seeing her friend Bonnie Gallion in the congregation also helped!) Her husband John, who had sworn off organized religion, started attending soon after and feels just as grateful for having found this community.

Deborah especially likes doing things with Fiona, including working in the gardens. Working on the grounds is meditative and she looks forward to helping more. For a time she worked with the Rainbow Alliance, but that's Fiona's space now. She's looking for new ways to help our community, thinking especially of our soon-to-arrive Afghan resettlement family.

When asked about what she would say to the congregation she said that she was so grateful that we exist especially with our natural sense of humor. "It's like cool water after a difficult time. UUCSS was what we were looking for and we're glad we found it. Keep being awesome!"

Community Partner of the Month Suspended

Like many faith communities, UUCSS has long partnered with organizations in our community whose missions intersect with our own and whose work promotes our values and furthers justice for our neighbors. In recent years we've done this by partnering with a different organization each month and encouraging the congregation to support them. This has had the benefit of exposing our members and friends to organizations they might not have been familiar with, and it's felt good to learn how our gifts are empowering their work in our wider community.

This program has also had challenges and draw-backs. A single month is not long enough for our congregation to be able to form much of a relationship with each organization, and as we are learning from our 8th Principle work, relationships are as essential as financial commitment in our service as a faith community. It's been challenging to balance commitments made to organizations selected for a given month with urgent needs that emerge locally and internationally. Another idea that is being explored is whether we might shift our Community Partner project toward a deeper and more lasting relationship by joining Action in Montgomery (AIM) and/or the Prince Georges Leadership Action Network (PLAN) to work with other congregations to press for local policy change. However, a commitment of that magnitude will take time for us to consider as a community.

It is for these reasons that the Program Council has chosen to suspend the Community Partner of the Month program, at least for now. I support this decision, but even more I support the spirit of discernment that led to it. I'm glad to serve together with people who are willing to lean into the unknown and into sometimes uncomfortable areas, who are willing to make space for questions and reflection, as we consider how best to try to be of service as a congregation in our wider community. Ultimately, in this time of ever-changing need around us, such an internal posture of openness, contemplation, and humility will serve us well.

Rev. Kristin
